In the Matter of William N. Dushkin and Marilyn J. Dushkin, as owners and operators for the F/V BOBBI DEE for Exoneration from or Limitation of Liability

Case No. 3:21-cv-00138-SLG

ORDER RE MOTION FOR MONITION

On June 4, 2021, William and Marilyn Dushkin (“Limitation Plaintiffs”) filed a Complaint for Limitation of Liability under the terms of the Shipowners’ Limitation of Liability Act, 46 U.S.C. § 30501, *et seq.*¹ In the Complaint, Limitation Plaintiffs seek to limit their liability with respect to any and all claims arising from a March 5, 2019 allision between a commercial fishing vessel they own—the BOBBI DEE—and a commercial vessel owned by Northern Seas Fisheries, Inc.—the ALEUT MISTRESS.² The Complaint states that while the BOBBI DEE was backing away from its berth, “[a] mechanical failure in the gearing system prevented the operator from shifting the vessel into forward gear, resulting in an allision with the . . . ALEUT MISTRESS.”³ According to the Complaint, the ALEUT MISTRESS “sustained hull and machinery damage as a result of the allision,” which cost

$340,487 to repair.⁴ At some point following the allision, North Seas Fisheries, Inc. “filed suit alleging damages to the vessel and for lost fishing revenue exceeding $154,000.”⁵ Limitation Plaintiffs report that “the BOBBI DEE and its owners fac[e] damages claims exceeding the value of the BOBBI DEE,” which they state is $255,000.⁶

Presently before the Court at Docket 3 is Limitation Plaintiffs’ Motion for Monition, in which they request that the Court find that they have posted adequate security and filed an adequate complaint and enjoin all claims and proceedings against them related to the March 5, 2019 allision, pursuant to 46 U.S.C. § 30511.

LEGAL FRAMEWORK

The Shipowners’ Limitation of Liability Act provides that “the liability of the owner of a vessel for any claim, debt, or liability [subject to the Act] . . . shall not exceed the value of the vessel and pending freight.”⁷ Claims arising from “injury by collision” are subject to the Act, provided the conduct at issue occurred “without the privity or knowledge of the owner.”⁸ To take advantage of this provision, a shipowner must, within six months of receiving notice of a claim, initiate an action in federal court and either deposit with the court an amount equal to his or her interest in the vessel or transfer such interest to a court-appointed trustee.⁹ “The procedure for a limitation action is now found in Supplemental Admiralty and Maritime Claims Rule F.”¹⁰ Supplemental Rule F(2) provides a list of requirements for a complaint filed in a limitation action, including: “the facts on the basis of which the right to limit liability is asserted and all facts necessary to enable the court to determine the amount to which the owner’s liability shall be limited”; “the voyage if any, on which the demands sought to be limited arose, with the date and place of its termination”; “the amount of all demands including all unsatisfied liens or claims of lien, in contract or in tort or otherwise, arising on that voyage, so far as known to the plaintiff, and what actions and proceedings, if any, are pending thereon”; and “the value of the vessel at the close of the voyage.”

“Once a shipowner has complied with [these] preliminary procedural requirements, the federal district court must enjoin all other actions which relate to the subject of the limitation proceeding and require all persons who have claims arising out of the same accident to assert them in the district court.”¹¹ This injunction is a procedural step and does not amount to an affirmative finding that the shipowner is entitled to protection under the Act; instead, it ensures that the question is decided in the proper forum.¹² Once an action to limit liability has been brought in federal court, a claimant may file an answer to contest the shipowner's "right to exoneration from or the right to limitation of liability."¹³ When this occurs, the district court "determines, in a proceeding known as a concurso, issues such as liability, the privity and knowledge of the shipowner, and if necessary, the distribution of the limitation fund."¹⁴

DISCUSSION

The Court finds that Limitation Plaintiffs have not fully complied with all of the procedural requirements of Supplemental Rule F(2) necessary to initiate an action to limit liability pursuant to 46 U.S.C. § 30511. Specifically, Limitations Plaintiffs have not identified the "place of [the voyage's] termination" as required by Supplemental Rule F(2), other than to state that the vessel is now in Alaska.¹⁵ Because the Court has determined that Limitations Plaintiffs have not complied with the requisite procedures of Supplemental Rule F, the Court will deny without prejudice the request for monition and the request to stay all pending cases against them related to the March 5, 2019 collision.¹⁶

Limitations Plaintiffs also request that the Court “find[] petitioners have complied with [Supplemental Rule] F(1) and [Local Admiralty Rule] f-(1), which require posting of security for value of the vessel and security for costs.”¹⁷ Posting security for value of the vessel is a separate requirement from the contents of the complaint, and a precondition to the filing of an injunction¹⁸; thus, the Court considers this request.

Limitations Plaintiffs have included a 2017 Condition & Valuation Report of Vessel Marine Survey for the BOBBI DEE, conducted by Captain David O.

¹⁵ See In re Lauritsen, Case No. 04 C 3550, 2004 WL 2065057, at *2 (N.D. Ill. Sept. 13, 2004) (“Plaintiff has not sufficiently set forth the place of its termination. Plaintiff asserts the voyage occurred on Lake Erie. However, Lake Erie is an extremely large body of water. We find that such a general reference to the location of the voyage is insufficient.”). This requirement is important in order to give proper notice to potential claimants as provided in Supplemental Rule F(4), particularly those who have not “made any claim against the vessel of the plaintiff[s] arising out of the voyage or trip” and thus would not be entitled to a mailed copy of the notice.

Dushkin and Marilyn Dushkin, and any and all timely and appropriate claimants with respect to a March 5, 2019 collision between the BOBBI DEE and the ALEUT MISTRESS."²² The Letter of Undertaking states that Navigators "hereby agrees . . . the case is dismissed.”²³ The Court approves this security and finds that Limitations Plaintiffs have satisfied the requirements of 46 U.S.C. § 30511(b)(1)(A) and (B), as well as Local Admiralty Rule (f)-1.²⁴
